Mosquito Traps

Juniors Emily Pickett and Michael Siebert flank Mrs. Bailey as she holds an example of the homemade mosquito traps.

By Callie Robinson

Mrs. Bailey's Biology II class did a project recently, called the Invasive Mosquito Project. The class made mosquito nests out of plastic cups, black spray paint, and paper towels to try to attract mosquitos to lay eggs. They enlisted people from the community to help put the nests in different spots around the area. After they collected their data, the class sent the nests with possible eggs on them to the USDA in Kansas City, Missouri. Nests were analyzed for eggs there; they hatched and raised them to see if they carry diseases. An e-mail was sent back to Mrs. Bailey from the USDA reporting that there were 28 eggs found. Out of the 28 eggs found, the majority produced Culex and Aedes mosquitos. The class plans to do another experiment in the spring.

After School Jobs

Kaitlin Martin, Jericha Miller, & Madison Younger

By Emily Pickett

When it comes to student's jobs at Zalma High School, they range from Texas Roadhouse to McDonald's to KB's BBQ. Madison Younger works as a hostess at Texas Roadhouse. She has been there for two months. She enjoys it most of the time, but when it gets busy, it can be very stressful. She typically works 20 hours a week, and she does get very exhausted going from school to work through the week. Kaitlin Martin has been working at McDonald's for the past year as a cook and cashier. She enjoys it more when she gets to work with other people from Zalma. She averages 12 hours a week. Jericha Miller works at KB's BBQ where she prepares food, cleans, and takes orders. She has worked there for three months, and she enjoys it because it is pretty simple. She doesn't have to worry about going to work after school because she only works on the weekends. Zalma teens have a variety of jobs that challenge their time management skills and help them to prioritize responsibilities.

Meet the Yearbook Staff

Kiara Cato, Emily Pickett, Kassi Bright, Adviser Mrs. Erin Shelby, Kaitlin Martin, Madison Younger, Jericha Miller, Callie Robinson, and Dara Baker

By Kiara Cato

Meet the 2017-18 Yearbook Staff! This year's crew of eight is made up of both senior and junior girls. The juniors include Kassi Bright, Kiara Cato, Jericha Miller, Emily Pickett, and Madison Younger. Seniors include Dara Baker, Kaitlyn Martin, and Callie Robinson. The staff takes pictures at events, writes articles for the Growler, compiles and designs the yearbook, and makes yearbook ads and sales. The new yearbook staff is looking forward to the coming year and all the excitement it will bring. So if you see us running around campus with our Canon t3is hanging around our necks, be sure to smile for us- or we'll spell your name wrong.
